Lora Ziebro

> Hope for the weary. Truth for a culture that has lost its way. All for the glory of God.

A former Army intelligence analyst, brain injury survivor and homeschooling mom of five — two with special needs — Lora can sit with the hurting because she has been there, and answer the skeptic because she has spent years teaching apologetics and is now completing an M.A. in Christian Apologetics at Southern Evangelical Seminary. Loud, authentic and down to earth, she leaves audiences encouraged, equipped and pointed to Jesus.

1 ENCOURAGING THE WEARY & BROKEN

Hope in the Dark: Christ's Faithfulness When You're Weary

Through a brain injury, postpartum depression and raising children with special needs, Lora found it was always faith — and always Him. Permission to be honest, and a reason to keep trusting.

Ideal for: Women's retreats, special needs and grief ministries, moms' groups

2 SPEAKING TRUTH INTO THE CULTURE

Answering the Hard Questions of Faith

If God is good, why is there suffering and evil? Clear reasoning and a pastor's heart for the hardest objections. Believers gain confidence; skeptics get honest answers.

Ideal for: Apologetics events, youth and college groups, homeschool conventions

3 MAKING MUCH OF GOD

Trusting Mightily, Surrendering Wholly

From stockbroker at 18 to Army analyst to mom of five, Lora shows with humor and candor how God uses even our failures for His glory — and invites audiences to trust Him with everything.
